

I am a broadcasting Annoucer with at local radio station in the SanFrancisco.

I work Part-time and I am very concerned about tracking and the fact that tracking could possibly take away my part-time position.

I am not a musician.

Local progromming should included locally originated and locally produced programing.

Yes the FCC should insure that all programming decisions are made at the local station level.

Programming that would count as local programming should be kept in the traditinal sense of news and public affairs.

Yes, stations should be evaluated on non-programming efforst such as "participation in local community activities or sponsoring fundraisers.

Charity events should also count towards the local stations community activities.

Being a part-time jock I don't know if any payola practices still exist today.

I feel voice-tracking in you major markets should not be used unless the voice tracking person is paid as if he is working the shift live.

I feel voice tracking in your small markets to medium markets is ok. Because the smaller market stations don't make the money that your major market stations make so voice-tracking is favorable for them as far as compensation for the announcer.

I feel the FCC should maintain a payment compensation for the voice tracking announcer to meet the pay for cost of living in the small market.
